San Bernardino County partners are pleased to announce an in-depth Housing First 2.0 training event with Housing First Innovator Dr. Sam Tsemberis of Pathways Housing First Institute. The December 14-15 event builds on the full day session offered to more than 200 participants in September 2016.

Who should attend this in-depth and interactive workshop?

This one and half day interactive workshop is intended for Housing First program practitioners and for practitioners in other permanent supportive housing programs who want to learn more about the operation and management of Housing First programs.

It is also aimed at policy makers, administrators, program directors and researchers working in the areas of social services, poverty reduction, homelessness, health, mental health, addiction, or in the areas of affordable or subsidized housing.

What will participants learn?

1. The 5 principles of the Housing First program and how these principles apply to the day to day operation of the program.

2. Use of a HF program self-evaluation inventory as a quality assurance tool in order to attain and maintain a high fidelity HF program that delivers optimal results.

3. The art and science of conducting home visits.

4. Ways to support consumers with integration into their community.

AND: Participants will have the opportunity to present and receive expert consultation for working with clients presenting them with clinically challenging situations.

The program will include ample opportunities to interact and learn from each other ina small group format.
